

Nothing Has Changed!

The same old media whips the masses into shape so they can offer themselves up to be placed upon the altar of sacrifice... mindless obedience to banker rulers.

It is obvious that our government is not in charge. So, who the hell is? I didn't ask for any of this, did you? I lived my life as best I could and have been a great consumer. I accumulated debt and played the game.

Now, I am very tired of watching the same old reruns on the mainstream media news about how we need to work harder and expect less. This is same old lame message I have seen and heard since i was a kid.... and I am now over 60.

There is a point at which the lies have been told enough to make you believe them but, isn't there still another point where the lies have been told so often and so long that they become absurdly obvious and everyone laughs at them? I think we are there now, don't you?

Take away the blood of the beast and Put all of your money in your local savings and loan. Stop playing the stock market. Take control of your money. Stop feeding the Corporate Beast. Stop using your Credit Cards! Pay Cash where you can! Barter and and use sweat equity to get what you need.

Remember, we are a talented and innovative people. We do not have to consent to tyranny in any form, especially not the corporate, economic warfare that is being waged against us now.

The gold and silver markets are the same as the savings and loan bust by the Bushes in the 1980's, internet dot com bust and latest the housing market bust... So you had better be ready for them to pop your naive bubble and take your gold and silver! This will happen and you know it. What the hell are you thinking?

This idea is to buy low and sell high. What moron would buy high? ... $1800 and ounce is insane... they are going to steal your money by killing the market and reducing the price to below $300 per ounce.... Mark My Words! This will happen SOON!

Your greed has made you The Sucker In This Financial "Crisis" LOL... Wake up or jump into the hole. Your Choice!
